SALYERS FOUND GUILTY

Jury recommends 20 ½-year sentence

SALYERS

By Larry Rowell
Editor

It took jurors less than 90 minutes to return to the Green County Circuit Court room on Jan. 21 with a guilty verdict for David Salyers, who was accused of complicity of murder in the September 2012 shooting death of Gleason Pyles in Dunnville. And it took even less time for them to recommend to Casey Circuit Court Judge Judy Vance that Salyers spend 20 years and six months in prison.

Defense attorney Jude Hagan, during the penalty phase after finding Salyers guilty, told jurors that as a result of their quick decision to send his client to prison, his efforts fell short.

"Clearly, I didn't do my job," Hagan said.

Jurors deliberated about 30 minutes before re-entering the courtroom to recommend the sentence which calls for imprisonment ranging from 20 to 50 years to life.

If Hagan feels that he didn't do his job, special prosecutor Shawna Virgin Kincer did an adequate job in convincing jurors that Salyers played a major role in Pyle's murder.

"We feel like justice has been served and hopefully now the family will have a little bit of closure. Beyond that, it would be inappropriate to comment further because we have the co-defendant set for trial in September," Kincer stated in an e-mail after the trial.

William "Bobby" Rigdon, of Lebanon, Salyers' co-defendant, is charged with murder as the Commonwealth believes that it was Rigdon who chased Pyles down and shot him three times on Sept. 26, 2012 at Tarter Pallet Mill.

Rigdon and Salyers are jailed in the Casey County Detention Center where they've been since October 2012, both under $1 million cash bonds.

Flu deemed widespread in Kentucky

By Katelynn Griffin
Staff Writer

It's flu season and the infectious disease is now widespread in 41 states, including Kentucky.

Influenza, more commonly known as the flu, can occur all year round, but is highly prevalent from December through April.

The Kentucky Cabinet for Health and Family Services describes the flu as a "serious, infectious, viral respiratory disease."

Flu Season

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, Kentucky is included in region four, which consists of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Tennessee. This region has had 19.8 percent of people test positive for the flu for the week ending on Jan. 18.

Kentucky has had one influenza-associated pediatric death and there have been 28 total pediatric deaths during the 2013-2014 season in 17 states, according to CDC statistics.

Nine deaths have come from region four and 11 have occurred in region six which includes the states of Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Louisiana, and Arkansas.

"People have flu-like illnesses in the county," said Amy Tomlinson, public health preparedness manager for the Lake Cumberland District Health Department.

Tomlinson said that getting an exact diagnosis of the flu can be difficult because it depends on the type of test that is used by the physician.

"It's a very specific lab test," Tomlinson said. While most doctor's offices take a swab of the individual's nose and the test comes back stating the person has the flu, that test is not the one used by the state for its records.

Tomlinson is aware of a couple of confirmed cases — none specifically in Casey County — but flu-like illness is widespread across the state.

Symptoms and Treatment

The flu can last a few days to a few weeks and the symptoms vary from person to person.

Common symptoms include the abrupt onset of fever, cough and/or sore throat, headache, chills and muscle aches.

Generally the person will feel sick, weak, and tired.

After being diagnosed with the flu, there are some medicines that can be given to lessen the duration and severity of the disease.

According to the CHFS, antibiotics will not work on a virus, but antiviral drugs can be prescribed.

Over the counter medicines for cough, pain relief, fever, congestion and antihistamines can help some people.

However, plenty of rest and fluids are the best treatments, allowing the illness to run its course.

High Risk

The CDC lists several groups of people who may be at a high risk for flu complications, including children under five years old and especially children under the age of two, people 65 and older, pregnant women, American Indians, and Alaskan natives.

People who suffer from asthma, chronic lung disease, heart disease, blood, kidney, and metabolic disorders, and individuals with weakened immune systems, and cancer patients are at greater risk to contract the disease.

Casey County native Jordan "Jumpy" Ellison, a junior at the University of Kentucky, is a member of the cheerleading squad who recently won their 20th national championship title in Orlando. Here, Ellison shares a moment with the UK mascot.

BLUE & WHITE

Ellison a member of UK's national championship cheer squad

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

The team had one big goal and he had a goal of his own. Both were accomplished.

The University of Kentucky cheerleading squad earned their 20th National title at the UCA/UDA College Cheerleading and Dance Team National Championship in Orlando, Fla. on Jan. 19.

Casey County High School alumnus, Jordan "Jumpy" Ellison, was a member of that squad.

"It was one of the peaks for me this year," said Ellison.

UK has rarely gone without winning the title in the last 15 years, but 2013 was one of those years when they fell short and earned runner-up to Memphis.

Ellison, a 2011 graduate of CCHS, has cheered all three of his college years as a member of UK's "white squad," which does not compete in the national competition. Therefore, as a freshman, he didn't travel with the team that brought home the 2012 title.

Going into his junior year, Ellison had high hopes of making the blue squad.

"Right at the start of basketball season I got moved up to the blue squad," said Ellison. "It was huge. I couldn't really believe it. One of the guys who was on blue wasn't performing to the level they wanted."

Ellison was made an "alternate" for the floor routines but began cheering full time with the blue squad. He was expected to be able to perform and step in on a moment's notice had another blue member become injured or ill.

"It's worked out so far for me and getting to cheer in Rupp is really, really awesome," Ellison said. And being a member of the blue squad carried another privilege.

For the first time, Ellison traveled with the Kentucky team to Orlando as a part of the squad vying to reclaim the national title.

GUEST EDITORIAL

Congress should restore vets' pay

Even if cuts to cost-of-living increases for some military veterans are repealed, the damage already is done, and we're not talking about money.

The Bipartisan Budget Act of 2013 that Congress approved and the president signed included a 1 percent "cut" to future cost of living adjustments to retirement pay for military veterans' younger than 62.

First, let's be clear about the nature of the so-called cut.

No one's income will drop, but future increases won't be as large. Also, disabled veterans are exempted from it. The "cut" is projected to save $6.2 billion over the next 10 years. When it comes to the federal budget, that's not even a drop in the bucket.

Second, don't expect it to be around very long.

Just when it seemed Washington gridlock is a way of life, this budget came along. Neither side got everything it wanted, but a compromise was enacted which eliminated the threat of another protracted fight and possible government shutdown. In the end, Congress passed what it could, knowing the most egregious portions later can be fine-tuned.

No one really wants to deprive veterans of their due. Not just because it's politically unpopular, but because it's wrong.

To that end, a number of lawmakers already have signed on to bills that would repeal the retirees' cuts, including Sen. Rand Paul, R-Ky.

Paul and Rep. Ted Poe, R-Texas, introduced the Uphold Our Promise to Veterans Act, known as Senate Bill 1930 and House Resolution 3807. In a joint statement, Paul and Poe said, "Congress and the president broke a financial promise to the veterans of this nation." ...

"We owe it to the men and women who have served in our armed forces to protect their livelihood, just as they have protected ours," Paul added.

The Bipartisan Budget Act of 2013 does more than break a promise. It breaks a covenant. We owe veterans more than that.

When civilians enter military service, they raise their right hands and swear to protect the Constitution. Implied in that affirmation is the very real knowledge that to do so means putting their lives on the line.

Members of Congress also swear to uphold the Constitution, too, but their oath is a bit more pedestrian.

We have the best military in the world and it is all volunteer. Without absolute faith that both sides will honor the covenant, how many young men and women in the future will be willing to sign up for such a one-sided deal?

Do you have a bear ancestor?

I could be a vegetarian in the summer. I could eat my weight in fresh green beans and tomatoes. Winter is a different matter. I want high-protein and calorie-laden foods. I think I was descended from the Ursus americanus (black bear) line instead of the Homo sapiens (human being) line. Let's face it, with all the clothes I've been wearing all winter I look more like a bear than a human being.

There comes a day in late summer or early fall when the weather gets chilly and all I can think of is a big pot of pinto beans.

Add fried potatoes and cornbread and I'm ready for winter.

I make a mean beef stew. It's simple to do -- braised beef, celery, lots of carrots, and lots of potatoes. Add a pan of homemade biscuits and some applesauce and I'm ready for winter.

Do any two people make vegetable soup the same way? I don't even make it the same way twice but it usually tastes the same. I use whatever vegetables I have in the freezer plus home-canned tomatoes, cabbage, and potatoes. A pone of cornbread rounds that out and I'm ready for winter.

I just noticed something here. Everything I prepare in the winter has potatoes. Isn't that a hoot? How can a body make it through the winter without potatoes? Can you make meatloaf without mashed potatoes? If you do, there's something wrong with you. Fried potatoes go with almost everything. Then there's the wonderful baked potato loaded with butter, sour cream, and bacon bits. I loved my mother's stuffed peppers and she always had baked potatoes with them.

Joberta WELLS
Columnist

Winter is the time for brownies, pecan pies, cakes, and pies. I ran across a recipe recently that has been around for a long time. If you love calories and chess cake, this recipe is for you.

CHESS CAKE

1 stick butter (not margarine), melted
1 yellow cake mix
3 eggs
1 8-oz. package of cream cheese, softened
1 lb. powdered sugar

In a bowl, combine melted butter, cake mix, and 1 egg. Mix well and spread into a greased 9x13 glass dish.

In a separate bowl, combine 2 eggs, softened cream cheese and powdered sugar. Blend well and pour over cake mixture.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 40-45 minutes, cool and enjoy!

That dog ain't gone hunt!

I got to thinking the other day how we southerners use a lot of quaint sayings in our everyday language. It's kind of how we lean our words together to make a point.

Having been raised in South Georgia, I heard many of these colloquial statements and I have continued to use them, even when we lived overseas in France and in west Africa.

What I have discovered living across the pond is that while each language has its own down-home sayings, ours don't really translate into other languages.

While "that dog ain't gone hunt" translates into French as "le chien ne chasse pas," it makes absolutely no sense as it does to us. It would mean to a French person that a certain dog doesn't hunt.

But for a southerner, that phrase could mean "that's not going to work," or "I don't like that," or "Mama, them biscuits done got cold."

Here's some more that we use in a variety of ways:

■ "Bellywasher" refers to a good cold co-cola on a hot day. Kentuckians might say "pop" or "soda."

■ "Done fell out with each other" means a broken relationship between two people.

■ "If he told you that a rooster dips snuff, you could look under his wing and find the can," speaks of a man who always tells the truth.

■ "I'm as busy as a one-legged cat in a sandbox." Is anyone really that busy?

■ "Won't hit a lick at a snake," points to someone so lazy he wouldn't chase a snake away.

■ "The porch light's on,

but no one's home," refers to a real dimwit.

■ "So ugly she'd make a freight train take a dirt road." That's pretty ugly, but I would think she's beautiful on the inside.

■ "He looks like 20 miles of bad road." Ever not seen someone for a number of years and you run into them and they look terrible? That's 20 miles of bad road.

■ "He was as nervous as a long-tailed cat in a room full of rocking chairs," and that's pretty skittish.

■ "I'm fixin' to jerk a knot in your tail." I heard this a lot in south Georgia. As a child, I was ADHD and there was no medication for it but I often was prescribed a belt or paddle as "a dose of medicine." I really would have preferred a tablespoon of castor oil, but it wasn't up to me.

■ "That woman has enough tongue for 10 sets of teeth," refers to a gossip, and we small town folks know a thing or two about gossip, don't we?

On a recent trip to Hawaii, my wife and I were eating in one of the local diners when the waitress appeared wearing a T-shirt emblazoned with the words "Broke Da Mouth," Hawaiian for a food that is really tasty.

Speaking of food, when Texans are full and cannot eat another bite after consuming copious amounts of brisket, sausage, and barbecue, they throw their hands in the air and cry "calf rope." I assume it means they are fit to be tied, or some such.

While we smile at the way we express ourselves, words are fun and should be used to build up and not tear down, comfort and not assault.

Proverbs 25:11 states that "a word spoken at the right time is like gold apples on a silver tray." And that, my friends, is good advice from the Good Book.

Enjoying the splendors of winter — finally

Finally, we got a decent amount of snow to actually enjoy!

Depending on your location, the area saw between 1-6 inches of snow; a sufficient amount to engage in a snowball fight, build a snowman, and go sledding (or at least attempt).

Kids had the entire week off and were eager to get outside and enjoy the powder. Dressed in multiple layers, mittens, hats, scarves, and snow boots, children braved the elements.

Humans weren't the only ones enjoying the snow. My cats were just as eager to get outside, and the kittens were amazed and somewhat confused — it was the first real snowfall they had ever seen.

Dogs also enjoyed the weather and even participated in their own version of the Winter X games. Frisbee and fetch is much more challenging when they're running through snow drifts.

Spending hours throwing snowballs and running around the yard proved to be a great activity for those of us who'd been locked up indoors.

Sledding proved to be fun, even though it was a little dangerous.

One must be weary of fences and fence posts. Also, the cats learned fairly quickly to stay out of the sled paths.

I feel that a warning of winter injuries should be addressed. Don't throw snow balls in your opponent's face, be kind to those who wear glasses, don't throw ice, watch your step because it's slippery, and remember to abandon your sled if headed for dangerous territory. Trees are not your friends.

Of course, after a few hours outside in the frigid temperatures and the wind beginning to blow, you can no longer ignore the fact that your hands and face are cold. It's time to come inside to enjoy the fire.

Hot chocolate, or coffee for us older people, is a must.

It's also a good time to curl up on the couch and watch a movie.

I'm not ignorant to the fact that some people have to work no matter what the temperatures or the weather is like. For them, I hope that the roadways weren't too treacherous and that they made it to and fro safely.

For the rest of us, the winter wonderland gave us a reason to stay home and enjoy the weekend. Honestly, I probably could navigate the slick and snow-covered country roads, but I rather enjoyed giving the excuse of "I'm snowed in and can't leave the house." I'll take any excuse to stay home and not have to do anything particularly constructive on a weekend.

Regardless whether you're a child playing in the winter weather, a parent wondering if school would ever be called back into session, a pet pawing in the snow, or the unfortunate person having to navigate the roads — embrace the winter weather and make the most of it.

I hope you enjoyed this round of winter weather and remember winter is not over yet, so keep your snow boots at the ready!

Casey's ASAP Board working to secure grant

By Katelynn Griffin
Staff Writer

The Casey County ASAP board met Jan. 16 to discuss securing a grant that could be potentially valued at a million dollars and to discuss finances and upcoming events.

Both city and county officials attended the meeting, including County Judge-Executive Ronald Wright and Liberty Mayor Steve Sweeney. Representatives from the school district were also present, as well as health officials, among others.

Kathy Williams discussed the Drug Free Communities grant update.

Williams said that training for the writing of the grant was already scheduled, so the grant is still coming out.

A committee assigned to the DFC grant came up with several strategies that would be addressed using the funds from the grant, including:

■ Increase awareness and knowledge of the risk associated with youth substance abuse and will be accomplished by awareness campaigns and adding curriculum in schools, in addition to implementing a youth coalition and having youths attend ASAP meetings.

■ Make the consequences associated with substance abuse known to the community. This will include a survey to be distributed to high school students asking them where they get their tobacco products.

■ Increase the resources to address youth substance abuse, with an emphasis on all the resources that are available.

■ Increase the community corroboration to address youth substance abuse.

These strategies, along with activities, had to be outlined in order to be considered for the DFC grant.

Williams said the grant is for five years and each year

$100,000 will be distributed. The grant is continuous and at the end of the five years, the group can apply for another five years.

"So we'll end up probably with a million dollars," Williams said. "Unless the funding runs out for some reason."

Once the group gets the DFC grant they'll be able to apply for other grants, such as the Sober Truth on Preventing Underage Drinking, or STOP, grant which offers $50,000 a year and can only be given to a group that is a recipient of the DFC grant, Williams said.

In other action:

■ Aimee Weddle presented the financial report. The current balance is $18,793.96, but is expected to decrease due to paying $8,000 toward the school resource officer's salary at Casey County High School.

"The SRO will come out of the total balance, leaving us with about $10,793 give or take," Weddle said.

■ The group printed signs for the prescription drop box located at the Liberty Police Department. ASAP members will make posters and put them around the county so the public is aware of where they can take their prescription drugs to be disposed of safely.

"We need to have a drop box or two out in the county," Sweeney said, adding that drop boxes could be placed in Yosemite or Dunnville.

Williams said the only problem is that the box has to be secured and monitored 24/7.

Man sentenced to life in prison for killing deputy

Dewayne Shipp has been sentenced to life in prison for the murder of Marion County Sheriff's Deputy, according to the Lebanon Enterprise.

Shipp, 50, of McDaniels pled guilty to Rakes' murder in December. At that time, the Commonwealth's Attorney recommended life in prison without the possibility of parole.

Marion Circuit Judge Dan Kelly formally sentenced Shipp to life without parole on Jan. 23. Shipp was also given 10 years for possession of a handgun by a convicted felon to be served consecutively to his murder sentence.

Before the sentencing, Kelly asked if Shipp or his attorney wanted to say anything. They did not.

Rakes' sisters Anita Elder and Regina Ewing did have some comments for Shipp, however.

"Why didn't you give my brother a chance to help you? He would have gotten you the help that you needed," Ewing said.

She asked why Shipp shot her brother twice and if Shipp thought he deserved to live the rest of his life in prison.

"You took away our only brother. We don't get to see him in person," Ewing said. "We have to look at a picture or go out to the cemetery."

Elder opened her remarks by showing the judge and Shipp a photo of Rakes. She asked Shipp how he would feel if someone took the life of his brother or son.

"You'd probably be angry like we are," Elder said.

Elder also told Shipp that she hopes he asks God for forgiveness for what he has done. She said she knows that Rakes is in heaven and that she will see him again some day.

The shooting

On Nov 14, 2012, Shipp stopped the vehicle he was driving on Danville Highway just outside of Lebanon. Rakes was on his way home at the end of his shift when he pulled over to check on the vehicle.

Shortly after exiting his patrol car, Rakes reported on his radio that shots had been fired. He was taken to Spring View Hospital, where he died in surgery as a result of gunshots to the abdomen and upper torso.

Shipp was arrested behind McDonald's in Campbellsville by officers with the Kentucky State Police and the Campbellsville Police Department. Shipp was initially transported to Taylor County Hospital and then to University Hospital in Louisville, where he was treated for a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the leg, according to Kentucky State Police.

Shipp has been in custody at the Kentucky State Reformatory since his arrest.

UK men's basketball assistant is arrested

According to the Lexington Herald Leader, an assistant on the University of Kentucky men's basketball coaching staff was arrested last week after allegedly locking his wife in an unheated garage and throwing water on her, Lexington police said.

Brian W. Shorter, 45, a strength and conditioning assistant coach in his second season at UK, was charged with wanton endangerment and fourth-degree assault, police spokeswoman Sherelle Roberts said. Shorter was being held in the Fayette County jail.

At 4:30 a.m. on Jan. 23 officers were called to the Marriott Lexington North, 775 Newtown Court, where Shorter's wife had gone after she fled her home.

"The victim said her husband had assaulted her and locked her in a garage," Roberts said. "During the course of an argument, the conflict escalated and became physical."

The woman told police that while she was in the garage, Shorter "went to the garage and threw a bucket of water on her," Roberts said. "That's what the wanton endangerment charge is for. In these freezing temperatures, throwing cold water on someone is dangerous."

Officers went to the couple's house, where they verified the victim's complaint and arrested Shorter, Roberts said.

When asked via Twitter for comment, John Hayden, associate director of media relations for the UK athletic department, responded with a statement: "We're aware of the situation and we're gathering information."

The UK media guide identifies Shorter as head coach John Calipari's "first ever recruit." That's a reference to when Calipari was an assistant coach at the University of Pittsburgh. Shorter was among the leading scorers for that school in the late 1980s and early 1990s.

Utilities see record energy usage

With wind chills falling below zero several times this month, utility companies are seeing greater energy consumption as consumers strive to stay warm, according to the News Enterprise.

Officials with Kentucky Utilities and Nolin RECC said they have seen record peaks this month with temperatures twice falling to subzero.

Vince Heuser, vice president of system operations for Nolin RECC, said his cooperative has seen several records for peak demand this month, saying consumption is up about 10 percent from normal levels for January, which typically is a month of high demand.

Heuser said Nolin RECC, which serves thousands of customers in nearly 10 counties, has not had any problem meeting customers' needs, but reports around the state show demand is high.

"It's not critical, but we certainly don't want people to waste (electricity)," he said.

Heuser said usage levels appeared to be stabilizing after a few bitterly cold mornings.

"It looks like it's kind of leveling out," he said.

Heuser encouraged those who want to conserve energy but stay warm to find a setting on their thermostat they can comfortably live with and keep it there. Grabbing an extra sweater and blanket and being sensible can keep your bills lower and your comfort levels steady, he said.

Cliff Feltham, a spokesman for LG&E and KU, said the company hit several energy records Jan. 6 and 7 but has not matched those highs during the recent stretch of cold weather.

Feltham said KU is in good shape to meet demand but must be vigilant in making sure all its systems are running properly. The utility has around half a million customers.

He said consumers can do their part to crack down on wasted energy by sealing cracks in their homes. He suggested they place cold blockers at the bottom and top of doors to seal openings where winter air can seep in. Feltham also recommended residents look for other openings that can be sealed with caulk. Likewise, homeowners can use plastic to seal the edges of windows temporarily while the temperatures are frosty, he said.

LG&E and KU released a statement earlier this month with advice on how to reduce energy usage, such as curbing reliance on other heating sources; turning off unnecessary lights and appliances; running dishwashers, washing machines and dryers only when full; and using a microwave oven or slow cooker to prepare food because they use less energy than a traditional oven.

Feltham said he believes the state was lulled into a false sense of security by last year's winter, which brought milder temperatures unlike the single digits experienced this year, which he pointed out is atypical for Kentucky.

But Feltham said in a few months the cold will be forgotten and the focus will shift to summer heat.

AARP Tax Aide: Free income tax preparation

Free income tax preparation is available for Casey County residents from the Tax-Aide program of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) starting Monday, Feb. 3. Electronic filing will be available free of charge.

Volunteer counselors trained by the Internal Revenue Service will prepare taxes for persons at the Casey County Senior Citizens Center, located at 85 Beldon Street, Liberty, each week from Feb. 3 through April 7 on Mondays from 3 to 7 p.m. (you need to be at the site by 6:30 p.m.).

Persons using the service need to bring a picture ID card; Social Security cards for the taxpayer, spouse and dependents; copies of last year's federal and state tax returns; and all W2s, 1099s, and any other relevant materials showing their income, expenses, etc. for the current year.

AARP membership is not required to take advantage of this service. Services are available for all ages.

Cincinnati Children's Hospital MICU visits Casey

The Cincinnati Children's Hospital MICU (Mobile Intensive Care Unit) paid a visit to Casey County Hospital on Jan. 16, showcasing a specialized vehicle equipped to transport the most critical, youngest patients.

Paramedic Kevin Hemsath and Registered Respiratory Therapist (RRT) Mary Johnson, who brought the vehicle to Casey, are members of Cincinnati Children's Hospital Transport Team. They are part of a three-member team (which includes a registered nurse, and sometimes a doctor) that makes runs to medical facilities within their coverage area and transports critically ill children to Cincinnati Children's.

"We will come by helicopter or ground, either one," Johnson said.

The team was scheduled to bring a helicopter to Casey Hospital, but weather conditions in Cincinnati prevented that. Instead, Johnson and Hemsath brought one of the facility's eight MICU's.

Johnson said it is approximately a two and one-half hour drive from Cincinnati to Liberty, and a 55-minute flight, which is within the coverage area.

"If you need us, all you have to do is call our dispatch center and they will make the necessary arrangements to activate the team," she said.

Patients from birth to adult, with a variety of issues, can be transported, Johnson said.

The MICU, which is larger than a standard ambulance, features the most modern, up-to-date equipment.

Besides the usual stretcher, the unit also contains an isolette, which is a type of incubator for premature or other newborn infants that controls temperature, humidity and oxygen levels.

Although Cincinnati Children's has not made any transports yet from Casey County Hospital, Sue Antle, Director of Nursing at Casey, said it is comforting to know they are available.

"We had an incident recently where we had to use two helicopters on two babies," she said.

Adanta coordinating count of homeless individuals in Casey

A count of homeless individuals in Casey County will take place today (Jan. 29) and will be coordinated by The Adanta Group. The 2014 Kentucky Count (K-Count) is a survey of homeless persons across the state. In addition, to counting homeless adults, the K-Count will be also be identifying school-aged youth who live in situations considered homeless. Homelessness is defined as individuals, families and youth who live in a temporary shelter, motels, vehicles, campgrounds, streets, abandoned buildings, or trailers. Persons who are doubled- or tripled-up with friends or relatives because their families do not have resources to afford housing are also considered homeless.

The public is invited to help collect data on individuals, families and youth who are experiencing homelessness in Casey County. The information from the K-Count helps Kentucky assist thousands of families to find safe, decent, affordable housing, as well as other supportive services. The count is also important because it is a large factor in determining the amount of federal funding available for homeless programs in the state which ultimately will benefit our community.

If you know of an individual, family, or youth who is homeless, contact The Adanta Group's Homeless Outreach Staff, Shawn Ford at 270-932-3226 or Felicia VanArsdale at 270-384-2499, or call the corporate office at 606-679-4782 and ask to speak with Shawn or Felicia.

Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted. Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth. Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled. Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy. Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God. Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.

The Casey County School District had the first of three required meetings and hearings to discuss the consolidation of elementary schools. Douglas, Phillips, and Phelps elementary schools would be changed from permanent status to transitional challenge, which would clear the way for consolidation.

House Bill 148, termed the “junk food” bill, prohibited the sale of “unhealthy” snacks from school vending machines in an effort to discourage obesity among youths. School officials were concerned that this bill would cut into funding used for sports and extracurricular activities.

A man was held at the Casey County Detention Center on charges of criminal trespassing, alcohol intoxication, third-degree terroristic threatening, fourth-degree assault, resisting arrest, and criminal mischief. According to the citation issued by Deputy Dennis Allen, the man was involved in a fight at a residence in the county and when officers arrived, the man allegedly knocked Allen’s glasses off, spat on him, and threatened to kill the officer.

Casey County road crews salted and scraped roads that were covered with an estimated half-inch of ice.

Firefighters were called to two fires over the weekend within hours of each other at a residence on Bastin Creek Road. Firefighters responded to a wood fire on Saturday on the property of Sharon Hackney. A second fire was reported hours later at 8:50 p.m., only that time it was Hackney’s home that was burning. The trailer was destroyed, but there was no one home at the time of the fire.

Terry and Luetrica Sassard of Yosemite celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary. H. Dee and Nannie Lee Atwood of Ellisburg celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary.

Assorted five-six ounce bags of Lays potato chips were 89 cents at Abe’s Pic-Pac Supermarket.

Obituaries: T.C. Cochran, 73; Rose I. Hines, 75; Alice E. Gosser, 51; Walter E. Stafford, 80; Hubert Cornett, 87.

A boil water advisory was issued for all Casey County residents after waterline leaks were discovered in both city and county water lines. Water was not available to many customers, which included Woodrum Ridge residents, who were without water for at least six days.

A 10-inch snowfall that fell the week before still had a grip on Casey County. Some businesses and schools remained closed as temperatures dipped well below zero for several days. Local grocery stores were also running low on staple food.

A 35-year-old Casey County Jail inmate was taken from his cell to the Casey County Hospital where he died shortly after from what was believed to be alcohol poisoning.

Three families were displaced due to fires that destroyed their homes. One of the homeowners, Erwin Lutz, 62, died while attempting to fight a fire that destroyed his wood frame house at the top of Bell Hill. Temperatures 27 degrees below zero made it difficult for firefighters to be of much use.

The Kentucky National Guard was used to haul water to the Galilean Children’s Home on South Fork Ridge during a weather and water crisis in the county.

es ever taken in the county. The haul of beer, gin, and whiskey was found concealed in cases that were fused to the bottom of a cattle truck and covered with tarpaulin. The truck belonged to a Russell County man who had previously been convicted of illegal possession of alcohol with the intent to sell.

Kentucky State Trooper Dennis Kaiser of Ashland was assigned to Casey County. He replaced Trooper George Cravens who moved to Burkesville.

Jean Grote was critically burned when a wood burning stove exploded.

Local weatherman Bob Wesley reported 9.85 inches of rainfall in Casey County for January. Nearly five inches of rain fell over a two-day period.

Mr. and Mrs. James McKee celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

A 14-ounce can of Comet abrasive cleaner was 15 cents at A&D Super Market.

The Green River Rest Home was averaging 25 patients a day with a total capacity of 26 patients.

The Casey County Purgation Board planned to remove the names of 356 voters from its list unless voters notified the board they wanted to remain of the list.

Liberty’s churches overshot their quota of 1,000 people in church for Sunday morning services. It was the last service in a month-long “Show Your Faith” campaign.

A Casey County man, 21, was charged with the rape of a 16-year-old girl. Prior to the suspect’s arrest, county officers tracked down and disarmed the girl’s father who, armed with a 12-gauge pump shotgun, was out looking for the man.

A 1991 Plymouth car stolen from Gene Peyton on Reynolds Creek was later recovered by the car’s owner. Little damage was reported done to the vehicle.

Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Scott of McFarland Ridge celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Conservation Officer Merl Toms reported deer poachers in the county using spotlights. The illegal hunting was primarily in the Little South are of Casey County.

Fresh boiling beef was 19 cents a pound at A&D Super Market.

HOROSCOPES

Jan 29-Feb. 4

CAPRICORN
December 22-January 19
Capricorn, you have so much to do now that your mind may be in a complete jumble. Others will come at you with questions, but take a deep breath and answer them one at a time.

AQUARIUS
January 20-February 18
Change is not the best idea right now, Aquarius. It is much better to stick with the status quo for a little while longer. Then you will have enough stability to make a change.

PISCES
February 19-March 20
Pisces, you have many new ideas about how to get rich quick, but you will probably want to find more sensible ways to earn a living.

ARIES
March 21-April 19
Aries, you are inspired to take on the world, but you may want to focus on smaller goals this week. Finishing a long-lingering work project is a viable option.

TAURUS
April 20-May 20
Taurus, something does not seem to be falling into place. Take stock of things at home and at work to see if you can crack this nut. A little more investigation may be necessary.

GEMINI
May 21-June 21
You may be offered a professional opportunity this week that is too good to pass up, Gemini. Despite this great offer, do your best to stay focused on work for the next several days.

CANCER
June 22-July 22
Exercise caution and do not jump to any conclusions at work, Cancer. While you may know what your boss expects from you, it is better to wait to hear what he or she has to say.

LEO
July 23-August 22
Leo, you can envision exciting adventures ahead, and those times will be here before you know it. Channel your enthusiasm so you can get a head start on planning your adventure.

VIRGO
August 23-September 22
Virgo, you have a desire to be different from everyone else this week. It’s good to be original, but don’t stray too far off the beaten path or you may find yourself lost.

LIBRA
September 23-October 22
Libra, a friend may shock you by doing something really outrageous. You do not know what to make of this change in personality, but do your best to take it in stride.

SCORPIO
October 23-November 21
Scorpio, work figures to put a lot on your plate in the coming week. You can handle everything that comes your way, so long as you keep your cool and continue to work hard.

SAGITTARIUS
November 22-December 21
You may be tempted to sneak up and play hooky from work, Sagittarius. Just make sure you handle all of your obligations first. Now is not the best time to kick up your heels.

Snow much fun!

CLOCKWISE FROM ABOVE, Micah and Jacob Smith, along with their dog Duncan, built a snowman over the weekend; Payton and Corbin Hatter, along with their father, built a "snowgirl"; and the Russell family braved the cold weather and constructed a snowman.

See next week's issue for more submitted photos of Casey Countians enjoying the snowfall.

South Ky. RECC accepting applications for Washington Youth Tour, $1,000 college scholarship

South Kentucky RECC is pleased to announce two great opportunities for the young people in its service territory.

Applications for the Washington Youth Tour are now being accepted through March 7, 2014. Competition for the all-expense-paid trip to Washington D. C. June 15-22 is open to high school juniors, between the ages of 16 and 18, whose parent(s) or guardian(s) receive electric service at their primary residence from South Kentucky RECC. Children or grandchildren of South Kentucky RECC employees, directors, and attorneys are not eligible.

Students must complete a typed essay of 500 words or less on the subject "Why I want to represent South Kentucky RECC in Washington, D. C." All essays and a completed application form must be returned to the guidance counselor of each school by their deadline, or South Kentucky RECC Member Service Centers by the end of the work day on March 7, 2014.

Twenty-four semifinalists from Adair County High School, Casey County High School, Clinton County High School, Lincoln County High School, McCreary Central High School, Pulaski County High School, Russell County High School, Somerset Christian School, Somerset High School, Southwestern High School, and Wayne County High School, and representatives from private schools and the home school program will be selected for a one-day trip to Frankfort, Kentucky, for the Frankfort Rural Electric Youth Tour. From that group, up to 12 will be chosen to go to Washington, D. C., in June.

Winners will be taken to Washington, D. C., where they will tour national landmarks and learn more about how the United States government works.

High school seniors, whose principal residence is an active account of South Kentucky RECC, can apply for a $1,000 college scholarship.

Each applicant must submit an essay about "Why Energy Efficiency and Conservation is Important." This essay should be between 350-500 words and should be submitted before March 28, 2014. Each school's winner will be decided by a committee from South Kentucky RECC.

South Kentucky RECC employees, directors, or anyone receiving direct benefits from the cooperative, and members of their immediate families, are ineligible for the South Kentucky RECC Scholarship Program.

For more information about either of these opportunities, visit your guidance counselor's office, call your local SKRECC office or 800-264-5112, or visit our Web site at www.skrecc.com.

Rebels showing toughness in district play

By Rita “Peat” Harris
Sports Correspondent

The Rebels earned not just one, but back-to-back victories to put an end to their losing streak. They took their first 47th District win over Rockcastle County and then beat Lynn Camp.

“It was two good teams, two competitive teams and that was pretty good,” Coach Maze Stallworth said about the wins.

Rockcastle County

Casey County boys’ basketball earned their first 2014 victory Thursday night when they triumphed over Rockcastle County, 67-63.

“Tonight was a gritty win, but we finally got some toughness out of these guys,” said Stallworth.

It’s safe to say the Rebels were out for revenge when they hosted the Rockcastle Rockets (9-12, 2-4).

The teams last met on Jan. 3 when Casey lost a 19-point lead to see the game go into overtime. Rockcastle ended up winning that night, 79-74.

While Thursday’s game remained close to the end, Casey maintained the lead from the end of the first quarter on. The lead changed hands four times in the opening period, but Casey led 17-16 by the end.

The Rockets tied the score twice in the second quarter, but a Casey County timeout followed each of the shots that brought the score even.

Stallworth’s players regrouped in those timeouts and came back to keep the lead both times. Casey was up 33-29 by the end of the half.

The Rebels put up six points in the first four minutes of play of the third quarter before Rockcastle responded.

Jordan Brown went on a hot streak for the Rebels keeping Casey in the game with eight straight points, followed by a three-point play by Jake Smith.

A final buzzer shot by Rockcastle cut Casey’s lead to six and the teams headed into the fourth quarter with Casey leading, 50-44.

The Rockets slowly cut Casey’s lead, bringing it to 55-53 with 4:32 to play.

As the speed of play began to pick up, so did Casey’s turnovers, but Rockcastle could never pull the game closer than within two points. With 50.5 seconds remaining, Stallworth used his last time out, Casey leading 62-59.

“I told them to calm down, take great shots, make great passes,” said Stallworth. “We were executing from the beginning of the game the way we were supposed to. I told them, take the lay-ups, get fouled, do what you’re supposed to do and we’ll beat this team. But if you turn the ball over, if you don’t rebound the basketball, we will not win this game.”

Rockcastle drained a shot with 35.5 seconds to go making the score 62-61, with Casey leading. They followed the shot immediately with a foul which sent Smith to the line for two free throws that extended the Rebel lead to three points.

Unfortunately, it was followed by a foul from Breece Hayes that gave Rockcastle two free throws making the score 64-63.

Hayes redeemed himself shortly thereafter when Baylen Hill was sent to the line for one and a bonus with 21.1 seconds to play. Hill missed the shot, but Hayes pulled down the rebound, putting it back up for two, giving Casey a 66-63 lead.

Hayes’ shot sealed the victory for Casey. Cody Clark posted one final free throw for the Rebels to make the final score 67-63.

“We got sped up a little bit but tonight we scored, that’s the difference,” said Stallworth.

Hill had a double-double with 23 points and 11 rebounds. Brown finished with 14 points while Smith had 11.

Lynn Camp

The Rebels rolled past the Lynn Camp Wildcats (3-15, 0-3) on Monday with a solid 76-55 victory on the road.

“It was a good game ex-

Baylen Hill, Casey’s big inside man, launches skyward to block a shot from Corey McPhetridge, 23, during Thursday’s game against Rockcastle County. Rebel guard Jordan Brown, 23, is shown under the basket. Hill had a double-double with 23 points and 11 rebounds. Brown finished the game with 14 points.

ecution-wise,” said Stallworth. “Defensively we let up in the third quarter, which we have a tendency to do.”

Although Casey led by 16 points at halftime, 38-22, the Wildcats battled back in the third quarter, cutting their lead to 11, 52-41.

However, the Rebels found their stride again in the fourth quarter and outscored Lynn Camp by ten to take a 21 point victory, 76-55.

“Overall we played three really good quarters,” said Stallworth. “From a team stand point everyone was energized and really trying to get their teammates to respond and go.”

Collin Miller led scoring with 19 points while also having four assists and three steals. Tanner Davis followed with 14 points and six rebounds. Hayes reached double digits in rebounds with ten.

With a solid lead, tStallworth had the opportunity to dig deeper into his bench and give some varsity experience to more of his players.

“We’re going to need those guys. I believe guys like Micco Randall really put in the work at practice,” said Stallworth. “I want those guys to know I value them.”

The team sought their third straight win last night when they hosted Garrard County (6-11, 0-3), whom they previously defeated on Dec. 23, 73-45. See next week’s issue for results of that game.

Beginning Saturday the Rebs will go on a heavy competition streak playing six games over an eight-day stretch, including their final district game on Feb. 3 at Pulaski.

Lady Rebels pick up three wins, now at 14-3 overall

By Rita “Peat” Harris
Sports Correspondent

Last week saw three more victories and two of them district wins for the Casey County Lady Rebel (14-3, 5-1) basketball team. The team beat 47th District opponents Rockcastle County and Pulaski County.

“At this point we know we’re either going to play Rockcastle or Pulaski in the district tournament,” said Coach Randy Salyers, noting the Lady Rebels have secured either the number one seed or at least a tie for it. “I feel like we match up pretty good with either.”

In between the two district wins, Casey was victorious over Clinton County.

Rockcastle County

On Jan. 3, the Lady Rebels began their 2014 play with a five point victory over district opponent Rockcastle County (4-14, 0-5).

While a win is a win, last Thursday the team sought a more solid victory and they achieved just that, winning 58-38.

Casey led early in the game and never looked back. It was primarily thanks to three-point shooting, though, that the Lady Rebels captured and maintained their lead.

Three treys in a row boosted their lead to 13-5 in the first quarter. The trend continued in the second quarter and they went into halftime leading 26-12.

“Offensively our alertness was there, but we missed a lot of easy buckets that could have put it out of reach at halftime,” said Salyers. “I told them at halftime the good thing was we hit a few threes.”

The Lady Rebels continued to dominate in the third quarter, upping their lead to more than 20 points, at 43-17.

“It was real nice to get to play all of the kids tonight,” Salyers said, noting most of their games this season have been extremely close scores.

Rockcastle finally put up double digit points in the fourth quarter, making the final score 58-38.

Christin Terry led scoring with 14 points, followed by Tiara Cochran who had 12. The two also led rebounding with six and five, respectively. Terry also had four steals.

Clinton County

Casey had the opportunity to put the game out of reach when they took on the Clinton County Lady Bulldogs (10-11, 4-2) last Friday night at home, but a strong showing in the third quarter by Clinton kept the game close to the end. The Lady Rebels did, however, come out with another victory, 55-53.

“We played pretty well until about two or three minutes left in the third quarter and were up 14 or 16,” said Salyers. “They hit a couple of shots at the end of the third to get it down to eight.”

The Lady Bulldogs led by one at the end of the first quarter, 15-14, but a strong performance by Casey in the second quarter saw them have a nine-point lead at halftime, 31-22.

The third quarter was low-scoring for both teams, but a few buckets at the end of the period swung momentum in the Clinton County direction. They now trailed 38-31.

“I felt like we got just a little tired in the fourth quarter so I think we ended up fouling and not moving our feet. We played hard but just a little tired,” said Salyers.

Free throws played a big role in the fourth quarter and Clinton’s ability to battle back. The Lady Bulldogs earned 16 points from the foul line, most of those coming in the fourth quarter. Casey, on the other hand, while earning 18 points from free throws, missed eight in the fourth quarter.

“We put them on the free throw line way too much,” said Salyers. “In the fourth quarter they kind of chipped away and chipped away at us.”

Casey was able to hold on to the lead at the end of the game and come out with a two-point victory, 55-53.

“I felt like if we’d finished the third quarter strong they would have laid down a bit,” said the coach.

Lakken Miller led the team with 16 points, followed by Cochran who had 11. Cochran also had five rebounds, as well as three steals and three assists.

Pulaski County

Casey rounded out their regular season district play with a victory over Pulaski County (12-7, 1-3) on Monday evening, after having to reschedule the match-up multiple times. The Lady Rebels triumphed 53-41.

“I still didn’t feel like we played a real good game. We played well enough to win,” said Salyers.

Casey last beat Pulaski at home on Dec. 13, 43-38.

The Lady Rebels took a 14-9 lead in the first quarter but let the Lady Maroons battle back into the game just before halftime.

“We had them down 20-9 in the second quarter and then we started substituting and changing some things up and let them get back in it.”

Pulaski trailed by only two at halftime, 20-18, but the Lady Rebels used the second half to slowly pull away and finish with a 12-point triumph.

“We did a good job causing turnovers,” said Salyers, adding his girls created 19 in the first half and 10 more in the second half. “We just didn’t follow up with anything.”

Terry put up 17 points for the Lady Rebels, along with three assists and four steals. Miller had 12 points and four rebounds.

Tomorrow the Lady Rebs host Southwestern Pulaski at home. Varsity tip off is at 7:30 p.m. They will travel to Holmes on Saturday and Russell County on Monday.

Casey grand jury indicts constable; pleads guilty in Mercer case

By Larry Rowell
Editor

A Casey County constable charged with taking money to buy and install four garage doors and not honoring the agreement was indicted by a Casey County grand jury on Jan. 10.

NUTGRASS

Joseph Nutgrass, 40, of Hustonville, was arrested on a felony charge on Feb. 14, 2013 in Casey County of theft by failure to make required disposition of property. The indictment states that on Nov. 16, 2011, Nutgrass, doing business as Liberty Homebuilders, unlawfully obtained $5,029.80 from Tracy Hebrock, which represented payment for the purchase and installation of four garage doors.

Mercer County

In a separate but unrelated case, Nutgrass pleaded guilty to a felony charge of flagrant non-support in Mercer County Circuit Court on Jan. 14, according to court records from the Mercer County Circuit Court Clerk's office. A flagrant non-support charge is child support in arrears of more than $1,000 or not having made payments for six consecutive months.

The Commonwealth is recommending that Nutgrass spend two years in jail, but that sentence is averted to a pretrial diversion, which means Nutgrass is unlikely to serve any jail time. Final sentencing is set for Feb. 11.

Nutgrass was indicted by a Mercer County grand jury on Dec. 12, 2012, alleging that he failed to provide support for his minor child, the indictment stated.

Nutgrass has served as a constable in District 2 in Casey County since 2010. He will be up for re-election in 2014, but as of yesterday, had not filed for re-election.

A constable, convicted of a felony, can continue to serve in that role but cannot carry a gun.

In other action:

■ Barry D. Mills, 38, is accused of trafficking in marijuana, eight ounces or more but less than five pounds; first offense cultivating marijuana, less than five plants; and tampering with physical evidence, all occurring on Sept. 28, 2013.

■ Brian C. Edens, 34, is charged with the manufacture of methamphetamine, firearm enhanced; three counts of controlled substance endangerment to a child, no injury; and possession of a controlled substance, meth; on Oct. 4, 2013.

■ Bradley Shane Luttrell, 30, was indicted on charges of possession of a firearm by a convicted felon, possession of an open alcoholic beverage container in a motor vehicle, first offense DUI, and failure of non-owner/operator to maintain required insurance, all on June 16, 2013.

■ Sunshine Novak, 28, is accused of unlawful possession of a meth precursor on June 11, 2013.

The indictment states that Novak had three packages of Advil Cold and Sinus, which contain ingredients used to manufacture meth.

■ Stephanie J. Clements, 40, was indicted for tampering with physical evidence. Clements is accused of removing clothing from a deceased person prior to authorities being notified on Nov. 27, 2013. Detectives also state that Clements placed them and other items on a back patio in an attempt to alter the death scene because she felt she would be charged with a crime.

■ Thomas Butler, 43, was indicted on a count of possession of a controlled substance, meth. Butler had a plastic bag with meth in it on July 12, 2013.

■ Timothy S. Childress, 21, is accused of four counts of first-degree wanton endangerment. Authorities allege that on Dec. 15, 2013 Childress drove a vehicle in a manner that endangered the lives of Nathan Durham, Joshua Grider, Samantha Evens, and Kyndra Cochran. Also, Childress is charged with first-degree fleeing or evading police in a motor vehicle, second-degree wanton endangerment, and reckless driving.

■ William J. Crowe, 20, is charged with first-degree wanton endangerment, second-degree disorderly conduct, resisting arrest, and DUI. On or about Jan. 11, 2013, Crowe resisted arrest at Casey County Hospital after driving under the influence, the indictment states.

■ Randall Lawless, 40, was indicted on two counts of fleeing or evading police and being a persistent felony offender in an incident on Dec. 31, 2013.

Closing arguments Defense

On the final day of the trial on Jan. 21, Hagan was the first to address the jury in a 35 minute closing statement.

"Guilt by association, that's what they want you to believe. This case isn't about gangs. The simple fact that everybody involved rode motorcycles doesn't make this case about gangs," Hagan said, referring to Salyers and Rigdon being members of the Iron Horsemen motorcycle club, characterized by a prosecution witness as the "worst of the worst" and an "outlaw motorcycle organization," an arm of the Hell's Angels.

The prosecution presented a case built upon Salyers as president of the local chapter of the Horsemen who wanted Pyles killed because of the disrespectful way Pyles chose to quit the Horsemen and because of a debt on a motorcycle which Salyers helped Pyles buy.

However, Hagan maintained, as he did throughout the trial, that Salyers had no idea that Rigdon was going to shoot Pyles, that Rigdon and Pyles got into an argument ending with the shooting.

Hagan even quoted Kentucky State Police Ricky Brooks, who told Salyers during a nine hour interrogation that he was just in the wrong place at the wrong time, a tactic that Brooks labeled as "deceptive strategy."

"You've done no wrong. How can anybody expect

Ricky Brooks, a KSP Detective who was the lead investigator in the Salyers' trial in Green County, confers with Special Prosecutor Shanna Virgin Kincer during a recess in the trial.

you to take a fall for two people who got into it and you had nothing to do with it," Hagan quoted Brooks as telling Salyers.

In addition, Brooks hammered away at Salyers during the intensive interrogation, continually telling him to "play ball" and keep his "eye on the ball."

Just before he sat down at the end of his closing statement, Hagan played off that same theme.

"David Salyers maintains that he's not guilty. I certainly contend to you that he's not guilty of complicity to commit murder. I maintain to you that he's innocent. I just want to leave you with this.

Don't believe the hype. Keep your eye on the ball," Hagan said.

Prosecution

Kincer wasted no time in reiterating the prosecution's focus during the six days jurors heard testimony.

"What I'm going to do is I'm going to talk to you and show you why we have proven beyond a reasonable doubt that he is guilty," Kincer said, pointing to Salyers seated at the defense table.

Kincer then took jurors on a jet tour through the case, highlighting evidence from the almost 100 exhibits she presented before the court.

And time after time, Kincer told jurors during the 90 minute closing statement that Hagan's defense case was built upon lies, deception and Salyers' attempts to cover up a murder he ordered because of an axe he had to grind with Pyles.

"This defendant and his little buddy, 'Hellraiser,' set off for Tarter Pallet Mill to find Gleason Pyles and they drove 17.2 miles to this location and they never turned back. They made sure he was working alone and when they got there David Salyers sat in the truck while he had Bobby Rigdon murder Gleason Pyles. Gleason Pyles was chased down and he was shot — not shot one time, not shot two times but three times, and it was while he was working all alone and defenseless," Kincer said. Hellraiser is Rigdon's nickname.

Kincer also told jurors that Salyers lied to investigators from the beginning and told his family members to lie to protect him.

"The bottom line is you cannot believe a word he says because he has no credibility. Actions speak louder than words," she said.

In her final words to jurors, Kincer reminded jurors about the severity of Salyers' crime.

"Which is worse? The person who actually pulled the trigger, pulled that trigger in cold blood, and ruthlessly killed Gleason Pyles or the one who orchestrated it and set it up. Thank goodness the law treats them equally," Kincer said.

Penalty phase

Kincer called Pyles' widow, Tina, during the penalty phase to tell how life had been since her husband's murder.

The mother of three children and grandmother of four cried as she related how difficult life has been

"It's bad. I'm having it rough, my kids are having it rough. It's just something we can't get over," she said. "I had to leave my home from where I lived because I could not afford my bills there. I could not keep it going," she said.

Hagan said he wouldn't take much of jurors' time because "I obviously didn't do a good job last time."

The defense attorney asked jurors to recommend the minimum sentence of 20 years based on Salyers being 61 years of age, and the belief in "remorse, hope, and rehabilitation," for Salyers.

According to sentencing guidelines, if Vance sentences Salyers to 20 years but not yet 21. The summons states that from Oct. 28 through Dec. 19, Gillock had 17 un-excused absences and was tardy four times.

before being eligible for parole.

Hagan said he will appeal the decision.

Final sentencing is set for March 7 in Green County Circuit Court. Bobby Rigdon's trial is scheduled for September in Case County Circuit Court.

Vance moved Salyers' trial to Green County amidst fears that members of the Horsemen would disrupt the trial, a fear that never materialized.

Security was heavy, with Kentucky State Police officers' presence evident throughout the Green County Courthouse and the city of Greensburg.

Hunter M. Gillock, 18, of 228 Casey Drive, Liberty, was issued a criminal summons on Jan. 27 by Deputy Chad Weddle charging him with truancy, student 18 but not yet 21. The summons states that from Oct. 28 through Dec. 19, Gillock had 17 un-excused absences and was tardy four times.

Men face drug charges

■ Edgar J. Propes II, 27, of 139 Lower Brush Creek Road, Liberty, was cited on Jan. 21 by Trooper Kevin Roberts and charged with possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia. Court records state that Roberts received a report of drug activity at the above residence. A search of the residence turned up a small plastic bag of marijuana and a marijuana crusher, both of which Propes admitted were his.

■ Gary DeWayne Rodgers, 39, of 231 North Hatfield Road, Liberty, was arrested on Jan. 25 by Sheriff Jerry Coffman and Deputy Chad Weddle on Creston Water Tower Road and charged with possession of a controlled substance, meth; trafficking in a controlled substance, drug unspecified; possession of drug paraphernalia, two counts of possession of a controlled substance, drug unspecified; receiving stolen property, firearm; and driving on a DUI suspended license. Court records state that during a traffic stop, officers found several bags of a white substance that Rodgers said was meth. A Glock pistol found in the glove box was stolen from Danville. Officers also found five Lortab and two Klonopin pills.

■ Keith M. Tilyou, 20, of Durham's Trailer Parl, Liberty, was arrested on Jan. 22 by Lt. Ronnie Smith and charged with public intoxication of a controlled substance, menacing, possession of a controlled substance, meth; possession of a synthetic drug, and possession of drug paraphernalia. Tilyou, stopped while walking on Whipp Avenue, had slurred speech and was talking out of his head, according to a police report. Tilyou had his hand on a knife in the right pocket of his jacket. He also had a white powder and a green substance that appeared to be a synthetic drug, court records state.

Three charged with assault

■ Storm Logan Park, 22, of 255 Lane Road, Kings Mountain, was arrested on Jan. 20 by Officer Harold Ray Cochran and charged with second-degree assault, domestic violence. Court records state that Park intentionally caused serious physical injury to Cheryl Moore by striking her in the face with a 2-inch by 2-inch hickory stick. Casey EMS transported Moore to Casey County Hospital for treatment of her injuries.

■ Ronna Carmickle, 40, of 167 Valley View Drive, Liberty, was arrested on Jan. 27 by Deputy Chad Weddle and charged with fourth-degree assault, minor injury. Court records state that on Jan. 10, Carmickle intentionally caused physical injury to Leeann Todhunter by hitting her and pulling her hair.

■ Matthew Passmore, 28, of 785 Neff Road, Liberty, was issued a criminal summons on Jan. 16 by Deputy Chad Weddle and charged with fourth-degree assault, minor injury. Court records indicate that on Dec. 23, Passmore, along with Darlene Marie Houlette and Charles Houlette III, hit Jakob Dean with a baseball bat and dragged him across blacktop. Also charged with fourth-degree assault, minor injury, were Charles Houlette III, 18, of 781 Neff Road, and Darlene Marie Houlette, 41, of 785 Neff Road.

Taken from the Casey County E911 records, Street Beat represents a history of the initial calls and the information used by the dispatcher to send officers to investigate complaints. It is not an indication of what the officers found upon arrival at the scene or how police may have dealt with the complaint.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on January 17, 2014 Kentucky Utilities Company ("KU") filed an application with the Public Service Commission, Frankfort, Kentucky for approval of revisions in its Demand-Side-Management and Energy-Efficiency ("DSM/EE") program portfolio, as shown in KU's Adjustment Clause Demand-Side Management Cost Recovery Mechanism ("DSMCRM") tariff and the resulting changes in its DSMCRM charges. In its application, KU notified the KPSC that the revised DSMCRM tariff sheets are proposed to become effective on and after February 16, 2014; however, because KU anticipates the Commission will suspend the proposed changes in the DSMCRM tariff to conduct an investigation of the proposed changes, KU has asked the Commission to approve the proposed changes in its DSM/EE program portfolio and resulting increases in the charges under the DSMCRM mechanism in its DSMCRM tariff to be effective on January 1, 2015.

The proposed changes to the DSM/EE program portfolio, if approved, will result in an increase in the charges calculated under the DSMCRM mechanism. The increase charges for all affected electric rate classes are as follows:

Residential Service Rate RS, Volunteer Fire Department Service Rate VFD, and Low Emission Vehicle Service Rate LEV
Current Charge per kWh	Proposed Charge per kWh	Difference per kWh	% Change
$ 0.00349	$ 0.00378	+$ 0.00029	+ 8.3%

General Service Rate GS
Current Charge per kWh	Proposed Charge per kWh	Difference per kWh	% Change
$ 0.00238	$ 0.00222	-$ 0.00016	- 6.7%

All Electric School Rate AES
Current Charge per kWh	Proposed Charge per kWh	Difference per kWh	% Change
$ 0.00088	$ 0.00101	+$ 0.00013	+ 14.7%

Power Service Rate PS, Time-of-Day Secondary Service Rate TODS, and Time-of-Day Primary Service Rate TODP
Current Charge per kWh	Proposed Charge per kWh	Difference per kWh	% Change
$ 0.00067	$ 0.00069	+$ 0.00002	+ 3.0%

KU projects that the monthly bill impact of the new DSM/EE programs and program enhancements will be an increase of $0.29 per month for a KU residential electric customer using 1,000 kWh per month.

This tariff filing may be examined at the office of Kentucky Utilities Company, One Quality Street, Lexington, Kentucky, or on Kentucky Utilities Company's website at www.lge-ku.com.

This tariff filing may also be examined at the Commission's offices located at 211 Sower Boulevard, Frankfort, Kentucky, Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., or through the Commission's website at http://psc.ky.gov.

Comments regarding this tariff filing may be submitted to the Public Service Commission through its website or by mail to Public Service Commission, Post Office Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky 40602.

The proposed changes to the DSM/EE program portfolio and associated increase in the charges calculated under the DSMCRM mechanism contained in this notice are proposed by Kentucky Utilities Company. The Public Service Commission may order changes to KU's proposed DSM/EE program portfolio that may result in charges under the DSMCRM mechanism that differ from the proposed charges contained in this notice.

A person may submit a timely written request for intervention to the Public Service Commission, Post Office Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky 40602, establishing the grounds for the request including the status and interest of the party. If the Commission does not receive a written request for intervention within thirty (30) days of the initial publication or mailing of the notice, the Commission may take final action on the tariff filing.
